Young people under 18 - or under 21 if in fulltime education - receive free hearing aids and fittings through the health system's Special Aid Fund.

Accident Compensation Corporation (ACC) funding

If hearing impairment is caused by a physical accident, noise accident, or occupational noise, ACC may provide funding towards the cost of hearing aids and may also cover the cost of audiologist fees.

If you think you have a hearing loss due to noise exposure you should get your hearing checked promptly, even if you do not want hearing aids now. In later years it may be difficult to prove that the cause of your hearing loss was due to the noise event several years previously.

Eligibility criteria includes:

- · Exposure to a noisy work environment
- · Sudden, extremely loud noise
- Accident (eg car crash, fall, etc).

ACC doesn't cover congenital, age or illness related hearing loss.

Your doctor, or an ACC accredited Hearing Therapist or Audiologist can initiate a claim. Phone: 0800 101 996 www.acc.co.nz

War Pension

Hearing aids and other hearing assistive devices are available to veterans with hearing impairment resulting from military service. Funding claims must be made on the War Disablement Pension Application Form available from the Veterans Affairs New Zealand.

It covers:

- Audiologist fees
- Cost of the aids (up to a certain limit)
- Cost of repairs
- A battery allowance
- Replacement aids (usually every five years).

WINZ (Work & Income NZ)

Advance payment of superannuation or any other benefits may be available to help pay for hearing aids. Contact the local WINZ office and case manager. A quote for the cost from an audiologist will be needed.

Phone: 0800 559 009.

Hearing aid bank

The New Zealand Audiological Society, Wellington Hearing Association, and some hospital audiology clinics administer a hearing aid bank for those unable to afford hearing aids and who are ineligible for other funding. The hearing aids are donated by hearing aid manufacturers or by individuals. An audiologist will be able to help access this bank.

HOW MUCH ARE HEARING AIDS?

The cost of hearing aids depends on hearing needs, preferences and budget. They can range from anything from $2000 for a pair of hearing aids through to more than $12,500 for a pair.
